LOVE FOOD?
Your passion for food can change the world

As a Food Blogger, now I really enjoy my day by reading about food from different countries including travel notes and foodie stories. It is really nice to see how people are connected through food. Recently I found another place to read and share foodie stories, travel notes and recipes which I spend most of time by reading interesting posts related to different countries and culture. It is Eat the Globe.

Eat the Globe is a virtual dinner table where foodies unite. Foodies can share their favourite recipes, restaurants and food trends in one place. Not only that. For each of post we share, Eat the Globe donates $1 to Oxfam! (Oxfam is an international organization that has been networked together in more than 90 countries to support a global cause to end hunger, injustice and poverty.)
